GREEKS GAIN EDGE IN FURIOUS FIGHTING

ALLIS LAUNCHES 24-HOUR SHIFT AS STRIKE ENDS

Milwaukee Firm Strives To Make Up For Lost Time; Coal Talks Continue

By The Associated Press.

The Allis-Chalmers factory at Milwaukee swung back into production of vitally needed military and naval orders today, while the United States Steel Corp.'s gigantic plants functioned normally after the CIO withdrew an order which would have stopped work at midnight.

Some 400,000 soft coal miners remain idle, however, as a result of a snag in negotiations over a new labor contract.

To make up for time lost during a 76-day strike, the Allis-Chalmers plant went on a 24-hour-a-day basis so the $45,000,000 worth of defense orders can be expedited. Under the settlement agreement, worked out with the assistance of the national defense mediation board, an impartial referee will be named to arbitrate disputes, wage negotiations will be continued and no strike or lockout may be held within a year.

Coal Conferences Resumed

The threatened walkout at 69 plants of U. S. Steel was averted by an agreement between CIO steelworkers and the management to continue, April 15, currently deadlocked negotiations for a new contract. Union demands include wage increases, union shop and dues check-off.

Shortly before announcement of the decision to continue the U. S. steel negotiations, National Steel Corp. annouced it was granting 10-cent-an-hour wage increases to approximately 20,000 workers. U. S. Steel employs 261,000 and has many important defense contracts.

Further conferences in the soft coal dispute were to be held at New York today. Southern mine operators had balked at a proposal to eliminate a wage differential under which southern miners make 40 cents a day less than similar workers in the north. The CIO United Mine Workers demanded a flat $7 a day, compared with $6 a day in the north and $5.60 in the south, under the old contract.

Machinists Stage Walkout

An A. F. L. machinists strike in the San Francisco area, called yesterday to enforce wage demands, closed about 50 plants and projects involving an estimated $7,000,000 in national defense contracts.

Other strikes for higher wages are in progress at the Lukens Steel Co., Coatsville, Pa., Phelps-Dodge Copper Corp., Elizabeth, N. J., and the Harris-Seybold-Potter Co., Cleveland machinery factory.

At Chester, Pa., it was announced that 7,500 hourly workers of the Sun Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. will get a 4 percent wage increase, retroactive to Jan. 18, but that union demands for a closed shop and other concessions have been denied under the arbitration decision. There was no work stoppage during negotiations.

The International Harvester Co. announced it has instituted a six-day, 48-hour work week at six plants in Illinois and Indiana, with pay at time-and-a-half for the extra eight-hour shift, to increase defense production. Four of the plants were affected by recently-settled strikes.

STUDENTS TO RECEIVE 3-DAY SPRING RECESS

The Easter vacation will begin Wednesday afternoon for approximately 9,000 public school children in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester and Newell.

The spring recess this year will be confined to three school days, Thursday and Friday of this week and Monday of next. Classes will resume again on Tuesday, April 15.

For many years schools were closed for a week during the spring. More recently however, this has been reduced to two and three days in order to conclude the year's work before Memorial day. In Ohio, schools are required to be in session 176 days each term to share in the school foundation funds.

St. Aloysius parochial school will close this afternoon for the Easter vacation, resuming Wednesday, April 16.

U. S. NAVAL OFFICIAL TO VISIT IN ENGLAND

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8 — Secretary of Navy Knox announced today that James Forrestal, undersecretary of the Navy, is leaving for England for a visit of about two weeks "to establish a close liaison" between the navy department and the British admiralty on matters arising under the lease-lend program.

END THREAT OF STEEL SHUTDOWN. Here are the leaders who ended the threatened strike of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee against the gigantic U. S. Steel Corp. At the left is Philip Murray, CIO chieftain, and right, Benjamin Fairless, president of the U. S. Steel Corp. The CIO and "Big Steel" agreed to extend their present contract another week.

ELECTIONS SET IN FORD PLANTS

NLRB Orders Votes On CIO Or A.F.L. Bargaining

By The Associated Press.

Collective bargaining elections in Ford plants at River Rouge and Detroit have been ordered by the national labor relations board in an important defense strike development.

The elections must be held within the next 45 days. Employes will have their choice of a CIO or A.F.L. union as collective bargaining agent, or they may reject both.

Some 85,000 employes of the Ford Motor Co. remain idle as a result of a CIO called strike at the River Rouge plant, but James F. Dewey, federal conciliator, expressed confidence he can arrange a face-to-face meeting of union and management soon to discuss settlement of the difficulties.

The union demands contractural collective bargaining, 10-cent-an-hour wage increases, reinstatement of employes it claims were dismissed for union activity and seniority guarantees.

Philip Murray, CIO president, went to Detroit for conferences on the Ford strike. President Roosevelt, at the request of Gov. Van Wagoner of Michigan, canceled a conference in Washington with Murray on the whole labor situation.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said the President and Murray will meet after the Detroit parley is concluded.

Tug Strike Averted At 17 Great Lakes Ports

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, April 8—A tug strike which threatened to tie up traffic at 17 Great Lakes ports, seriously hampering movement of national defense materials, has been averted. The walkout would have affected seven Ohio docks.

Settlement of the tug controversy was announced shortly before midnight by August A. Wolf, president of the A.F.L. tug firemen, linemen and oilers, as locals were preparing to take a strike vote. Wolf said the union has reached an understanding with officials of the Great Lakes Tug Co. on wage demands, made by 600 workers.

Wolf said the agreement provides a 50-cent daily pay increase.

CONFLICT IN BALKANS MAY EASE U. S. PERIL

George Asserts Chances Of Convoy Use Diminished

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8—Chairman George (D) of Georgia of the senate foreign relations committee said today that establishment of a Balkan front in the European war will ease the Nazi counter-blockade against Great Britain and reduce to some extent the chances that the United States may become more deeply involved in the conflict.

While George said it remains to be seen whether Greece and Yugoslavia can halt the German invasion long enough to establish a solid front, he declared that Nazi concentration of air power there seems sure to be reflected in a lessening of raids on shipping around the British Isles.

George said he doubts that President Roosevelt is giving any "serious" consideration to convoys at this time and Sen. Morris (Ind.) of Nebraska agreed.

George reiterated his expressed belief that Mr. Roosevelt will not order American vessels into European combat zones without first consulting congress.

COUNCIL MOVES TO CHECK DOGS

Group To Ask County's Help In Strict Control Here

City council, spurred by recent forays of roving dogs, took up the cudgel Monday night in favor of strict control of strays and named a committee to demand assistance from the county.

Members Paul Baxter, Harry Wilson and Bert Goodballet were chosen by President James Hall to ask county commissioners: That Dog Warden Dan Butch exercise active and efficient control over East Liverpool canines and that the county provide funds to pay for examination of dogs believed rabid.

Discussed At Length

The action came after a long discussion of the dog problem, in which councilmen charged that the county provides virtually no supervision over East Liverpool dogs, although it collects large amounts here yearly for licenses.

Dr. F. R. Harrison, city health commissioner, told councilmen that the commissioners have ruled the county dog warden has no jurisdiction in the city—that the problem is up to the police department.

Mr. Harrison said funds are needed to ship to Columbus for examination the heads of dogs which have attacked humans. "Some provision should be made for shipping the heads within 24 hours after the dog's death," Dr. Harrison explained. "We can't depend on the dog warden; we've found that out by experience. The same condition has existed for two years."

Attacking Dog Dies

Safety-Service Director William Watkin, who brought the subject onto the floor, announced that the chow puppy that attacked 12 persons in the East End last week has died at the city incinerator plant, where it was under observation after its capture by a Harvey ave. housewife.

Dr. Harrison said Commissioner Frank Fisher has promised to send in Warden Butch sometime today to ship the dog's head to Columbus. In cases where the suspected dog is a stray with no apparent owner, the city or county must pay the cost of shipping the head—which is approximately $5, Dr. Harrison explained.

Willkie Denies Claims He Seeks Political Tie With Forces Of Dewey

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8 — Attempts were reported under way today to effect a working agreement under which Wendell L. Willkie would support Thomas E. Dewey for the Republican nomination for governor of New York in 1942 in return for backing by Dewey if Willkie bids for the Republican presidential nomination in 1944.

Those who have been working to bring about such an agreement were said to be actuated not alone by interest in the two prospective candidates but in advancing Republican chances generally in the 1942 off-year elections.

They were said to feel that a harmoniously-conducted campaign in New York might go a long way toward solidifying the party's ranks elsewhere.

"There is not a single word of truth in that report.

"I have had no such conferences as suggested nor have I authorized anyone to engage in any such discussions on my behalf. I have at no time discussed either candidates or future campaigns.

"I am not interested at this time in candidacies of anyone for either 1942 or 1944 as I have stated repeatedly."

'DEATH' TROOPS BEAR BRUNT OF NAZI ASSAULTS

Outposts Guarded Until Last Minute By Suicide Squad During Heavy Fighting

By The Associated Press.

The Greeks have a death battalion meeting the brunt of the Nazi attack, according to the newspaper Kathimerini at Athens.

It is formed of volunteers for service in outposts. Every man, the paper said, is highly qualified for the work of defending the positions to the last moment to cover the withdrawal of the main forces.

After that, the paper said, their job is to blow up all communications and bridges before falling back.

Terrific Air Battles Fought

The paper related that one group of 150 held back a German force 20 times as large for 36 hours.

Greek correspondents returning from Yugoslavia today brought only fragmentary accounts of the war. They said terrific air battles are being waged over Skoplje and other cities and that Yugoslav troops are fighting valiantly against superior German forces.

Apparently Yugoslavia is getting the heaviest fighting since the Battle of France. The United States legation at Athens has been unable to communicate with the legation at Belgrade since Sunday.

'Fail To Meet British'

Meanwhile, at Berlin, a German spokesman said that "Germany will have to issue a formal invitation for the British to fight in the southeast. Our army there is looking for them, but has not encountered the British so far.

"We met them in Africa, but there they are running from our panzer outfits."

(Reports from Athens said Greek defense positions are being strengthened by a steady stream of British imperial forces.)

England Will Seize Goods Of Hungarian Origin

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, April 8—Britain has decided to regard Hungary "as territory under enemy occupation," the ministry of economic warfare announced today.

"As from April 8, 1941, therefore," the announcement said, "Hungary will be regarded as an enemy destination for contraband purposes, and all goods of Hungarian origin or ownership will be liable to seizure."

U.S. Gets New Nazi Protest In Ship Seizure

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8—Secretary of State Hull said today Germany has sent a new note reenforcing its protests over the seizure of German merchant ships and crews in the United States.

ALLIED SHIP LOSSES JUMP TO NEW HIGHS

Toll For 2 Of Last 5 Weeks Reaches 150,000 Tons

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, April 8—Failure of overdue ships to turn up sent British Allied and neutral shipping losses for two of the last five weeks to approximately 150,000 tons each—heaviest toll of 1941 in the Battle of the Atlantic—authoritative sources declared today.

The average weekly loss of shipping during March was placed by the admiralty at 98,000 tons.

Amended losses for the week ended March 2 listed 30 ships totaling 150,700 tons—the biggest loss of any week this year. For the week ended March 16 amended losses were given as 27 ships of 146,098 tons.

Losses declined during the week ended March 23 to 17 ships aggregating 59,141 tons, the admiralty report said, and went up again the following week to 20 ships of 77,575 tons.

In announcing the latest losses, an authoritative source declared the Battle of the Atlantic well "may decide the result of the war."

An admiralty statement said Britain has convoyed 200,000,000 gross tons of shipping since the start of the war.

"The greater part of this vast tonnage," the statement said, "arrived unmolested by the enemy."

Chinese Recapture Towns

HONG KONG, April 8—The Chinese central news agency has reported the recapture of Swabue, 85 miles away, which the Japanese took March 24.

Council Stirred By Condition Of Railroad Crossings In City

Demands Pennsylvania Repair Deep Holes Immediately As Year-Old Claim For $526 Is Ordered Paid

City council voted Monday night to demand that the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. repair its crossings throughout East Liverpool, charging that virtually everyone of the roadways over the tracks is "in terrible condition."

Clerk G. Arthur Shone was instructed to inform the company of the request, which councilmen said must be fulfilled or: "We're going to have to 'sit down on them' to get action."

Declaring that the railroad should repair deep holes in the blacktop paving over most of its crossings, Councilman Bert Goodballet also called for action on the installation of a second guard gate at the Broadway crossing, which council requested last January in a conference with railroad heads here.

The aggressive stand was taken after council gave approval to a resolution authorizing payment of the Pennsy's claim for $526.47 for damage to its right-of-way Jan. 8, 1940, when a city water line broke on the hillside between downtown and the East End.

"Now I think we're in a position to demand that the crossings be fixed to the satisfaction of the city engineer's office," Mr. Goodballet said. He cited an instance in which an East End woman was injured when she stumbled on a hole in the roadway over the Mulberry st. tracks.

"Everytime we've had a meeting with the railway men, they've mentioned this debt the city owes them," Councilman Heddleston pointed out. "Now that we are ready to pay the bill, maybe we can make some progress in our negotiations for better crossings."

Councilman Charles Rumberger mentioned a near-mishap he said he witnessed recently at the Broadway crossing—apparently caused by the lack of a guard gate on the river road approach. A motorist drove onto the tracks, not noticing that the opposite gate was down and that a train was approaching.

His path blocked—and hearing the clang of a warning bell in the nearby watchtower—the motorist became confused and drove onto

Americans Branded 'Gangsters' As Italy Flays Ship-Seizures

By The Associated Press.

ROME, April 8—A strong cordon of troops, reinforcing the pickets of the last few days, guarded the United States embassy today, while large crowds demonstrated enthusiasm for the war with Yugoslavia under Premier Mussolini's balcony.

Twice, the throngs brought Il Duce to his balcony, but the demonstration broke up without menacing the embassy and the adjoining consulate.

The precautions presumably were taken because of press denunciations of the United States for aiding Italy's enemies and for sequestering Italian ships.

Fascist party posters appeared on walls of the city, headed, "gangsters" and saying:

"Scratch an American and you will find there a pirate gangster.

"The acts of theft committed by the United States in appropriating Italian and German ships which took refuge in her ports but were protected by international law is explained only by remembering the 'outlaw' origin of the present ruling class in the republic of the United States of America.

"As an extreme, Puritan hypocrisy over there arrested the crews which used their sacrosanct right to put out of commission their own ships before pirates took them over.

"It is not for nothing that British and United States people call themselves 'cousins'.

"Not only is their language identical but their instincts are the same and so are their actions.

"History will punish the 'cousins' as only it knows how to punish."

DERNA, LIBYAN PORT, TAKEN OVER BY AXIS

Fresh Water Supplies Make Town Highly Important

By The Associated Press.

ROME, April 8—An official announcement said today that Italian and German troops have occupied the Libyan port of Derna.

Derna is approximately 175 miles east of Bengasi, from which the British withdrew last week. A deep water port, it had been held by British forces since Jan. 30.

The town is of strategic importance because it possesses large fresh water supplies vital to desert fighting.

The Italian high command also announced that Fascist troops and the German mechanized units have occupied the Libyan towns of Barce and Tocra. Tocra lies about 50 miles northeast of Bengasi on the coast. Barce is about 10 miles inland.

BRITISH AVIATION BASE SEIZED NEAR BAGHDAD

By The Associated Press.

VICHY, France, April 8 — A dispatch from Beirut, Lebanon, to the French information office today said Irak troops last night seized the British aviation base of Cineldebane, near Baghdad.

Prince Regent Abdul Ilah, who took refuge in Basra after last week's coup d'etat at Babhdad, has left that haven to flee the country, the dispatch added.

WRECKED NAVAL BOMBER SIGHTED

Searchers Fail To Mention Fate Of 10 Men Aboard

By The Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., April 8 — A wrecked naval bomber was sighted off Cape Charles, Va., today by searchers for a big naval patrol craft which has been missing since yesterday with 10 men aboard.

Naval authorities here said that it is the missing ship.

Hope that the plane and its men were safe was felt for a time on the basis of reports from navy and Coast Guard sources in Washington and New York that a ship resembling the missing craft was seen operating safely in New Jersey waters. Later the Atlantic City Coast Guard station identified the plane as one of those searching for the bomber.

Sighted From Navy Plane

The Cape Charles wreckage was sighted from a navy plane.

Messages received from the searchers did not say whether they had seen any survivors of the two officers and eight enlisted men aboard the bomber when she took off from here for the naval air station at Quonsett Point, R. I.

The wreckage was sighted about two miles east of Great Machipongo inlet, off Hog Island, Cape Charles.

The broken bomber was sighted by a plane attached to a naval air carrier. The plane was not able to land. The pilot flashed word that he also sighted a life raft but could not tell if anyone was on it.

The Coast Guard immediately dispatched the cutters Dionne and Rush to the scene, as well as three lifeboats from stations near the scene of the crash.

May Have Run Into Fog

It is believed that the giant plane crashed into the sea after running into fog shortly after taking off.

The patrol plane left here at 8:35 a. m. yesterday for the naval air station at Quonsett Point on a transfer flight. It was scheduled to make the trip in four hours.

Ten minutes after taking off, when the plane probably was 30 to 40 miles along, it made a routine flight report. The next word received—the fragment "down at sea"—was picked up eight hours later by the radio station here.

Rear Admiral E. J. King, commander of the Atlantic fleet, ordered naval vessels on patrol duty at sea to join in a hunt and airplanes from here, New York and other points soared aloft in an effort to discover the downed craft, or possibly its rubber lifeboats loaded with survivors.

Lighter-than-air craft were ordered out from the Lakehurst, N. J., station and Coast Guard headquarters in New York directed all surf stations from Norfolk to Rhode Island to search in their area.

Germans Encounter Tough Resistance In Twin Balkan Attack

Belgrade Fire-Bombed For Fifth Time By Nazis; Reich Parachutists Fail In Attempt To Drop Behind Line

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON, April 8—President Roosevelt cabled young King Peter II, of Yugoslavia today assurances of all material assistance possible and his earnest hopes "for a successful resistance to this criminal assault" upon the Balkan nation.

BERLIN, April 8—Germans claimed today that their troops from Bulgaria and Rumania have advanced to Skoplje, important industrial and military center in southern Yugoslavia about 100 miles northwest of Salonika.

By The Associated Press.

A violent battle between German and Greek troops in the hills around Nevrokopi, in northeastern Greece, was reported today to have turned in favor of the Greeks—and even Hitler's high command acknowledged "tough resistance" in the twin Balkan offensives.

The Nazi high command asserted, however, that both campaigns are "progressing effectively".

Belgrade, the capital of Yugoslavia, was fire-bombed a fifth time by the German Luftwaffe.

Athens dispatches said the Greeks are holding fast at Rupel pass against German armored columns attempting to smash their way to the vital Struma river valley.

A steady stream of British imperial forces is reported strengthening the Greek positions.

German parachutists were reported to have failed in an attempt to drop behind the Greek lines and cut communications, with 130 'chutists captured and others killed.

Ravines Littered With Dead

In one valley, it was said, the Greeks let the Germans advance without opposition and then cut loose with heavy artillery and machine gun fire from the forest and pillboxes hidden on the hillsides.

The Greeks, however, apparently suffered a serious blow in the reported withdrawal of Yugoslav troops from the Balkan "hot corner" zone, exposing the Greek left flank; while on the right flank, Nazi panzer columns knifed 50 miles south to the Aegean sea between Greece and Turkey.

Germany listed 63 opposing planes destroyed in yesterday's operations—20 in airflights over Yugoslavia, 34 on the ground, five in air flights with British planes and four by anti-aircraft on the western front.

The sudden departure of the Yugoslav troops—in southern Yugoslavia near the Greek and Bulgarian frontiers — was not explained.

A Greek general staff communique said briefly:

"Yugoslav troops fighting in southern Serbia withdrew, uncovering the left flank of our troops, who were fighting heroically on the border line.

"Despite this, our soldiers continued to fight with great self sacrifice, defending the fatherland inch by inch."

Military observers said a general Yugoslav withdrawal from the sector would permit the Germans to plunge down the broad Vardar river valley, key route to Greece.

The official Turkish radio declared the Germans lost heavily in their initial onslaughts against the Balkan Allies. The radio said that if the Yugoslavs and Greeks establish contact in Albania, Italy would be unable "to save 10 percent of her troops there."

Yugoslavs Take Albanian Base

An official Yugoslav report said Yugoslav troops have seized Scutari, Albania, and are driving southward in an apparent "squeeze" operation to drive out the Fascists.

The Italian town of Zara, on the Dalmatian coast, also is said to have fallen to the Yugoslavs.

The Greek high command acknowledged the withdrawal of "weak screening forces" from western Thrace, along Greece's frontier with Turkey, permitting Nazi panzer columns to slash through to the Aegean.

The high command said the withdrawal was carried out "to avoid useless sacrifices" because western Thrace is untenable.

War-cut communications from Yugoslavia blacked out any Yugoeslav account of the trend of the battle, but the Germans declared earlier they had crossed the border in drives from the north, northeast and east driving in wedges in some places 30 miles deep.

In southern Serbia, the Vardar river is within 30 miles of the Bulgarian frontier.

At the same time, the Greek communique reported "vigorous action" against Italian forces in Albania and said 500 prisoners were taken and large quantities of arms and supplies seized.

WASHINGTON, April 8—Secretary of State Hull said today the state department has received a message by indirect means from Arthur Bliss Lane, the American minister to Yugoslavia, reporting that all Americans in Yugoslavia are believed to have been safe as late as Sunday night.

BRITAIN POUNDS NAZI KIEL BASE

Other Reich Centers Raided; Germans Blast Isles

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, April 8 — British bombers raided Kiel for five hours last night, raining "hundreds of tons of very powerful bombs" on its submarine building yards and docks, the air ministry announced today.

Attacks on the ports of Bremerhaven and Emden last night and daylight raids on objectives in Denmark and the Low Countries also were reported.

Spotting their targets in bright moonlight, German bombers spanned the British Isles last night, blasting many scattered points in England, Scotland and northern Ireland.

Five Nazi Raiders Downed

The moonlight also aided the R. A. F. night fighters over the homeland and five Nazi raiders were reported shot down. The British admitted loss of five planes.

Nine persons were killed in northern Ireland's first sustained air raid of the war. Britain's northern Irish allies had experienced sporadic raids before, but last night the Luftwaffe struck at an undentified town at midnight and unloaded bombs for more than an hour.

The British ministries of air and home security said, "though some districts experienced sharp attacks no heavy attack was made on any one district, but activity was widespread over the country and incidents are reported from many parts of Great Britain."

Scottish Towns Attacked

A number of persons were killed and many injured in a town in southwest Scotland (possibly Glasgow). A town in southeast Scotland also was attacked.

Liverpool bore the brunt of raids on northwest England, though early reports said casualites were not heavy.

London had its first bombing in 18 days—the first high explosive to fall hitting near a hospital for the aged, killing one patient and injuring two others.

Lisbon Draft Board Commended For Work

Special To The Review.

LISBON, April 8—Draft board No. 3, inspected recently by H. E. Zepernick, district supervisor of the selective service, received one of the highest ratings in the state for its efficiency in the selective service work. The board consists of W. D. Morris, Lisbon, chairman, Henry Ashbridge, East Palestine; Charles Russell, Wellsville, and Pressley Hart, Salineville. Jack Johnson of Lisbon is clerk, and Miss Grace Woodward of Wellsville, stenographer and typist. One vacancy on the board caused by the resignation of James G. Stevenson, has not been filled although the recommendation of the county committee, Judge Joel H. Sharp, Judge H. W. Hammond, and Malcolm W. Thompson, for the appointment of Jack Grubbs, Lisbon Legionnaire, has been forwarded to Columbus.

Clerk Johnson said there are 70 men in 1-A classification in this district, who have taken medical examinations and are ready for service. There are 77 in the 1-A bracket awaiting medical exams, out of 1,372 questionnaires classified to date by the board. There are 125 men from this district in service, which, with the 70 ready for service and assuming that the 77 others pass, will give the district 20% eligibility.

OHIO FIRMS TO BUILD ARMY GUN CARRIAGES

$7,000,000 Order Granted Akron, Cleveland Plants

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, April 8 — Cleveland and Akron plants of the Wellman Engineering Co. will join in constructing a $7,000,000 worth of 500-ton carriages for the army's largest guns—the 16-inch coastal defense weapons.

The giant guns are capable of hurling 2,400-pound projectiles about 30 miles.

In announcing war department authorization for the equipment, company officials said they could not reveal the number of carriages to be built. President A. E. Gibson said, however, that it will take at least four and a half years to complete the order.

Gibson declared parts for the intricate machinery will be made here, with the carriages to be assembled in Akron.

Gibson said the carriages will be equipped with apparatus to elevate and remove the guns, being operated hydraulically and electrically. Part of the machinery will be embedded in a concrete foundation at the gun sites.

Similar mounts will be built by the Mesta Machine Co. of Pittsburgh, which has a $8,211,800 contract.

Ohio Pensioners Lose Battle To Ban Homestead Seizures

By E. E. EASTERLY
Associated Press Staff Writer

COLUMBUS, April 8—The old age pensioners demonstrated last night a powerful influence over the Ohio house of representatives, but it was not quite potent enough.

The pensioners, championed by a Democrat, corralled more than a majority of the representatives in behalf of a proposal to prohibit the state from seizing their homesteads. The rules, however, required three-fifths.

By a vote of 70 yes to 47 no the house rejected a resolution which would have submitted to the voters of the state a constitutional amendment embracing the homestead exemption. Eighty-three favorable votes were needed for its adoption.

Under the present system the state has a prior claim to the property of an aid for aged recipient and upon his death may sell it to recover the amount of pensions paid plus 4 percent interest.

Rep. John C. Hess (D) of Stark county, author of the resolution, asserted that the present arrangement "merely provides loans—not relief—to the aged."

Fifty-six Democrats and 14 Republicans voted for the resolution. Against it were 46 Republicans and one Democrat.

Rep. Lody Huml (D) of Cleveland, the lone Democrat, termed the proposal a "false and futile gesture". He contended "the state can't take the property now."

State Defense Council Receives Approval Of Senate

While the house debated pensioners' needs, the senate voted unanimously to set up a 13-member state defense council. The new agency would have authority to investigate and make recommendations to the governor and legislature for better cooperation of industry, labor and the public in national defense. The bill goes to the house.

The senate also approved unanimously a measure obligating the state to pay up to half the cost of soldiers' relief. The expense now borne by the counties, runs about $1,800,000 a year. The state welfare director would determine how much the state should share. This bill, too, goes to the house.

Care For Insane Patients, Other Measures Are Supported

The house, disposing of the pension resolution, then proceeded to complete enactment of legislation appropriating $618,500 for the care of insane patients for whom there is no space in state institutions.

It also passed a bill permitting the use of fuel oil in mine machinery and sent it to the senate.

Speaker William McCulloch announced that the biennial appropriation bill, carrying $351,800,000 for operation of the state government in 1941-42, will be brought up for a vote in the house tomorrow afternoon.

The senate health committee approved proposed legislation empowering the state board of barber examiners to establish minimum prices and opening and closing hours for barbers. Those who refused to conform would become liable to suspension or revocation of their licenses.

The health committee also recommended for passage a bill requiring physicians to make blood tests of pregnant women, a part of the campaign against veneral disease. Women who declined to submit to a test would have to set forth their reasons in an affidavit to the state health department.

Up for a vote in the senate today was the bill imposing stricter regulations on horse race tracks and tripling the state's tax on horse race betting.

Jaycees Here Donate Blood Storage Device For Hospital Service

The board of directors of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Monday night authorized the donation to City hospital of a plasma-vac—equipment used in a method of preparing plasma, blood without its cells, for storage in reserve for transfusions.

The device, which makes it possible to store the plasma for several weeks, eliminates the necessity for laborous testing and typing in the case of an ordinary transfusion.

It will make it possible for the hospital to have on hand quantities of blood in each of the four major types, available without delay for quick use.

Small and compact, the equipment provides for the storage of plasma within the same unit. Several physicians on the hospital staff commented: "It's a very fine gift from the Jaycees; one that can be used often." The device is said to cost approximately $150.

However, it is not the same "blood bank" equipment used by European hospitals for crystalizing blood on a large scale for indefinite storage—a fairly recent innovation that has sprung into prominence with the war.

60 AT FLOWER CLUB'S EVENT IN WELLSVILLE

Two addresses and vocal selections featured the program attended by 60 Wellsville Glad-Dahlia club members Monday night in the I.O.O.F. hall.

Veirs of Canton gave helpful hints to tyro dahlia growers, followed by a brief talk by Harold Gallimore of the East Liverpool Dahlia society, who discussed plans for the state dahlia show in East Liverpool Sept. 20-21 and told how he cultivated prize-winning blooms.

Colored pictures of the Nick Zoellar and E. L. Savage gardens also were shown. Arthur Hutter of Canton was a guest. Refreshments were served.

It was announced that the East Liverpool society will be in charge of the program for the May meeting.

24 Years Later

THE forthcoming rupture in relations between the United States and Germany has been a long time in the making. When it happens, as it must in the near future, no one will be surprised.

Formal diplomatic relations were broken off when President Roosevelt failed to order Ambassador William E. Dodd to return to his post long before the European war started. That was this government's first official notice of dissent to Nazi policy.

Public opinion, which always had viewed Adolf Hitler with suspicion as a frightening symptom of Germany's political turmoil, began to turn against his government in 1934 following the "blood purge". The fact of Nazi violence thereby was established beyond doubt.

The character of the Nazi regime was disclosed further by its use of farcical plebiscites and persecution of the Jews. When it was made plain by occupation of Austria and systematic exploitation of Spain's strife that Naziism was not going to be confined inside Germany, all previous suspicions seem to be confirmed.

Subsequently, having gained the initial momentum needed to make its impact on international affairs a serious matter, the Nazi regime boldly showed its hand by a policy of wholesale rearmament and military agreements with other powers. Perhaps America's first clear realization of what was in store for the world was the cynical alliance with Russia, which had been the scapegoat for Hitler's drive to power. A later agreement with Japan proved the United States would not be immune.

As long as there remained some hope of averting general war with honor, Americans shared the hope of Britons and Frenchmen that Germany somehow might be appeased. When it finally became obvious that Germany was not interested in appeasement, but committed to conquest, the shape of things to come was established beyond any possibility of change. The same fundamental points of difference that made the United States and Germany come to the parting of the ways on April 6, 1917, had been reestablished. The issue between autocracy and democracy had been reopened the second time in a quarter of a century.

Getting Cleared Away

THERE being good reason to believe events shortly are going to move so rapidly it will be impossible to give more than a nod to each one as it whizzes past, a few things should be set in order.

First of all, it plainly is absurd to continue to think of Italy as retaining the right of self-determination. Italy has lost its separate identity. Germans control its government, do part of its fighting, direct its strategy. There is no reason to expect any dissent on the part of Italy; Italy has been devoured by the super-state its dictator helped to create. Italy is not a separate factor in the war any more.

Second, the German cue about Japanese policy is wholly misleading. Japan has two things to fear, the United States navy and the British navy. It cannot be affected by anything Germany might do, except a decisive victory over England. The Nazis want Japan to keep the United States preoccupied to make this possible. But the Japanese are not fools. They will not afront the United States seriously until and unless they are certain of German victory; they have had the benefits of Italy's tragic mistake of presuming German victory was in the bag.

Third is the matter of German victory, itself. Part of the secret, of Nazi success has been the illusion of an insuperable Germany. That is an integral part of Nazi propaganda. It is intended to paralyze the victim with fear before he is attacked. But the illusion is being continued beyond the plain facts. Germany may conquer the world, but its chances never were darker than they are in the spring of 1941 at the zero hour.

Fourth, and last, is a domestic matter—strikes. Whatever the cause of strikes at this particular time, the effect is the same. It is hampering a program of production. There is a time for talking about causes and a time for being concerned about effects. This is a time for being worried about effects.

Social Security Revisions

THE Ohio legislature is considering certain changes in its unemployment compensation act, under which the state collects 3 percent from the payrolls of contributing employers and turns the money over to Washington. The government gives the state credit for 2.7 percent of this money, subject to order for insured workers who become eligible to receive unemployment compensation, and retains the rest for administrative purposes. The state's credit is approaching $200,000,000.

The original plan called for a merit rating plan enabling employers with low labor turnovers to obtain the benefit of lower payments after three years of experience. This feature of the law appealed to stable employers; it gave them a chance to become preferred risks, as it were. In a word, it embodied the insurance principle of charging the highest premium for the greatest risk.

An attempt to abolish merit rating is now afoot. It seems to be part of a wider centralizing campaign which, if continued to its logical climax, would wipe out state boundaries altogether in administration of social security, forcing the employers and the states that were the best risks to pay for the shortcomings of the most expensive employers, wherever they might occur.

All such proposals make good New Deal doctrine, but are in sharp conflict with good sense. They call for vigorous opposition.

Italy's Collapse

'Military Discord' Declared Largely Responsible For Greek Setback; Bribe Efforts Proved Futile

ROME—Italy's army was in effect betrayed from the rear. The high command sought to sabotage the war. Premier Mussolini and the Fascist politicians struck back at them just as the fighting began.

Under this withering cross fire, the army was in a state of collapse before it began to fight.

Here is the story.

Shortly before the Italian attack on Greece, Premier Mussolini summoned Marshal Pietro Badoglio, his army chief-of-staff.

"We are going to occupy Greece," he announced. "I have spent 150,000,000 lire bribing Greeks in key positions. They will not resist. How many divisions have you in Albania ready to march in? How many do you need for an occupation?"

"Seven are ready," said Marshal Badoglio. "They are enough, if you are sure of yourself and the Greeks don't resist. But I'd rather play safe. I should have 10 divisions more."

"Will it take long?" asked Il Duce.

"Months," was the reply.

"Then we can't wait," said Mussolini.

SIGNOR Mussolini knew that Marshal Badoglio didn't want to attack Greece. Marshal Badoglio, indeed, was opposed national-entire war. As an Italian nationalist, he was anti-German. As a conservative he was anti-Fascist. As a soldier, he knew his army was in no position to fight a modern war. He had expected Italy to remain neutral, and therefore hadn't stirred himself greatly getting ready for campaigns. His soldiers in Albania weren't ready.

But Il Duce thought he didn't need those soldiers, and went ahead anyway.

Everyone knows the next chapter of the story which took place at the front.

Meanwhile back in Rome, as the Italian armies foundered, the inner circle of pro-German Fascists saw their chance to seize control. Their leader, Roberto Farinacci had no use for the army Old Guard leaders who fully controlled the high command under Marshal Badoglio.

Privately, Signor Farinacci called them traitors. He said they never conscientiously would fight this war for the "new order' at the side of Germany. He said it was intolerable that an army should be against its own government, and told Il Duce so.

WHETHER Signor Farinacci was acting on orders from Berlin is not certain. It is certain, however, that he worked hand in glove with the Germans. And the Germans considered Marshal Badoglio as an old school army man, good enough for Ethiopia but no match for modern, mechanized war.

It is equally certain that Signor Farinacci acted on motives of his own. He and the party leaders still were smarting under their defeat at the hands of Marshal Badoglio and the army a year before.

At that time, the Fascist militia was lording it over the regular army, drawing 10 times as much pay and seizing hard-earned promotions by political sleight-of-hand. Marshall Badgolio persuaded Il Duce to cut the militia down to size and the party never forgot.

Now, when the bribery in Greece failed and the army was in a shambles, Signor Farinacci saw his chance to pin the blame on his arch enemy and get rid of him.

He prepared an article for his newspaper, the Regime Fascista, openly denouncing the chief of staff for "incompetence".

Marshal Badoglio got wind of it and said that if it were published, it would be the last straw. It was published, and he went to Signor Mussolini, saying, "I am resigning."

"You're already out," was the reply. "Your resignation was accepted some time ago."

SIGNOR BADOGILO walked our and went game hunting in the mountains to nurse his wrath. The Fascists were in control, Il Duce's word was final, the army was not in any position to revolt and there was nothing else he could do.

Officially, then, Marshal Badoglio "resigned". Technically, it was a mutual parting of the ways. Actually, he was dismissed.

Within a few hours, his place was filled by Ugo Cavallero, a political general, a military nonentity, who could be depended upon to do as he was told. The Fascists then promoted several of the younger, Fascist-minded generals and set out to make the army their own. They planned on German staff assistance and on a spring attack which was to undo the damage in Albania.

As a last characteristic touch, the veterans of the party's street-fighting days whom Signor Farinacci was bringing from retirement and installing in key party positions, launched a "smear campaign" against Marshal Badoglio. Word was passed down the party line to spread reports among the people that Badoglio had been grafting on arms contracts.

This account accurately represents the Badoglio version of the affair. It comes directly from someone so close to the former chief-of-staff as to leave no doubt as to its authenticity.

The incident speaks volumes on the state of the Italian army. The Badoglio affair was, of course, the head-on conflict of Army versus Party.

THIS was the first basic cause of the army's collapse. The second was military dry rot. It is described by a young Italian soldier back from the Albanian front.

"I had been in Albania for 16 months when the order came to march into Greece," he said.

"We were not told we were going into battle. Our officers said the Greeks had been bribed with gold; all we had to do was walk in.

"The first day we went up into the Pindus mountains, into a world of snow and ice. I never shall forget the appalling cold as long as I live. The snow was three, four, five feet deep. The wind was biting and congealing, far below freezing. They sent us into that with summer clothes.

"Next day, we were ambushed by the Greeks. We were blue and half sick with the cold. The Greeks had wool pullovers, wool stocking hats, wool socks, and heavy peasant shoes.

"I had a gun, but a piece of the mechanism was lacking. They hadn't any spare parts in stock. The gun wouldn't shoot.

"There were about 500 men in my unit. Only 38 of us survived. We left our killed and a far greater number of wounded to perish in the snows. It was horrible. There was nothing else we could do.

"We had no food for five days, no assistance while struggling back.

"At the base, I saw docks loaded mountain high with cases of ammunition, food and supplies. But no one was distributing it. It wasn't that we lacked things—it was just that no one got them out to us."

This is just one typical story out of many. The force in Albania wasn't an army. It was a bewildered mass of peasants for the most part. It vitally was lacking in those essentials of supply lines, staff work, co-ordination and common-sense efficiency which alone can make an aggregation of men into a functioning unit.

High-Powered Power

By JACK STINNETT

BECAUSE of all the mammoth power projects we have been hearing about for years, you may be as shocked as I was to know that the federal power commission is talking about a shortage of electricity.

It is potential — not imminent even in the areas where the drain has been greatest—but it is going to take some kilowatt juggling to avoid it. Unless the power production program is stepped up to top speed in the danger zones, says the commission, there may be—within two years or sooner, when national defense swings toward maximum capacity — blackouts of whole cities. Remember the "lightless nights" of the World war?

The last complete national report on the situation was made the first of the year, but the power commission says the situation is getting worse, not better. Here's what the commission has to say:

"In about half of the supply areas, there is installed or scheduled for operation this year sufficient capacity to supply anticipated demands. In other areas, it appears that anticipated demands can be met by encroaching on reserves or by additional capacity made available through interconnections with systems in adjacent areas.

"In nine important war material areas, the demand was 53 percent more (in December) than estimated three months before."

LISTED as potential shortage areas where greatest plans must be made for unexpected power loads: Upstate New York, Georgia-Alabama, Pittsburgh, Virginia, Arkansas-Louisiana, and northern California-Oregon-Nevada.

This kind of talk about the nationwide power situation, private and public, sent me around to see Secretary Harold L. Ickes to find out how his department of interior power projects are standing the strain—and I got another jolt.

In 1930, when the power plans for Boulder dam were being made, the boys looked over the situation and estimated that by 1980, they would need a capacity of 750,000 to 900,000 kilowatts. The installed capacity of Boulder dam today is 704,000 kilowatts and three more generators are being added to bring capacity immediately to 947,500 kilowatts—and according to the secretary, every watt is needed.

In words of one syllable, Boulder dam is operating 40 years ahead of schedule—a schedule laid down just 10 years ago by some of the nation's ace power authorities.

The bureau of reclamation's 25 power plants are increasing their generating capacity of about 872,000 k.w. to 1,042,000 and shooting the juice to development of their program of 40 plants with a capacity of more than 4,000,000 k.w.

AT Bonneville dam, the interior already is planning to increase the initial capacity five-fold. At Grand Coulee, where first of the three initial "largest generators in the world" started putting out pay loads the other day, the initial program has been doubled.

At Parker dam, on the Colorado river, the first generators will be installed by the end of this year, nine years ahead of original plans. And at Shasta dam in northern California, they are racing to complete the project a year ahead of schedule just to get electricity into the highlines as soon as possible.

Rebirth Of An Industry

Aircraft Plants Boom As In 1917 With Nations Again Asking For Planes

By DEVON FRANCIS

NEW YORK—(The Special News Service)—An industry that was flat on its back 23 years ago is working around the clock today to supply $4,000,000,000 worth of warplanes to the armed forces of the United States and for shipment abroad.

Less than $4,000,000,000 ran the entire government of the United States for a year as late as 1930.

American aircraft manufacturing was born a few years before an assassin's bullet at Sarajevo touched off the World war.

For a feverish 18 months during that war it stepped into the ranks of big business. Then it hit a 10-year toboggan.

Now it has been reborn as a "national emergency" industry.

This is the way it first became a nine-digit enterprise:

The time was the spring of 1917. The United States had just gone to war. An initial force of a million men was to be sent abroad to fight.

Warfare in Europe had entered a third dimension, the air. At first, airplanes had been used only for reconnaissance work. But gradually, as fledgling wings had grown stronger, they were employed for combat and bombing operations. America would need planes as well as troops and ships and guns.

The strategists estimated they must send abroad one plane for every 1,000 men, with perhaps two in reserve—between 2,000 and 3,000 machines. The aircraft companies, inconsequential until then in the nation's industrial structure, spoke up.

THEY coud do that. They had 5,000 employes trained for the work.

But the English, French and Italians had another idea.

"Twenty-five hundred airplanes!" they exclaimed. "We need planes too. We will need 25,000 planes, perhaps more, from the United States!"

The demand for planes in 1941 sound like an echo of the plea in 1917.

Planes were built. But it took time to create and get the industrial machinery going. Only 2,000 reached France. But on Armistice day, 1918, this country had reached a productive capacity of 21,000 warplanes a year—still an all-time high.

The armistice brought a morning-after headache.

Almost overnight, while cheering crowds celebrating victory thronged through America's 10,000 main streets, the aircraft industry, grown strong in a national emergency on military money, took to its bed. It died, or so they thought.

Contracts worth $100,000,000 were canceled. Factories folded up. Blue slips by the thousands were put into pay envelopes. Automobile companies engaged in airplane manufacture returned to making automobiles. The boom was over.

But the industry lived, even though for two decades it didn't amount to much in terms of dollar volume output.

A flurry of interest in aviation in 1928-29, on the heels of Lindbergh's flight to Paris, while it was not sustained, did help put the manufacturing plants on their feet. Prior to that, their peak production of military planes—commercial production was negligible—was 629, in 1927.

STILL the dollar value of their output remained small. As late as 1930 it was $53,000,000, as compared with $2,000,000,000 for the automobile industry. After 1928 demands of the airlines for equipment were added to those of the army and navy.

Then a restless world began rearming, and finally Europe went to war again.

Today airplane making is a major American industry. Twenty-five factories employing 175,000 workmen are devoted to military airplane manufacture. Ten factories are making military aircraft engines. Several automotive concerns are building engines and a number will make parts of planes, possibly 200,000 workers will be so employed.

Ultimately as many as a half million workmen may be employed in American aircraft manufacture.

The goal this year is 18,000 machines. Total orders to date aggregate 37,000.

A brief six years ago the industry produced 500 planes in 12 months.

The aircraft industry is the house that military "Jack" built.

A study by William Barclay Harding published in 1938 by the Wall Street investment firm of Charles D. Barney & Co. showed that almost 65 percent of the dollar volume output of United States aircraft plants was in military products.

Today, of course, it is almost 100 percent.

Tear Gas Aids Gardens

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

ITHACA, N. Y.—Cornell university plant doctors — the plant pathologists—are using tear gas in a new way.

They inject it into the soil of flower gardens, where it destroys many of the organisms that cause plant diseases.

The experiments, after three years, have reached a semi-commercial stage. They are conducted in the department of plant pathology by F. L. Stark Jr. and Dr. A. G. Newhall.

The tear gas is injected in shots of about a good-sized thimbleful each, in holes three inches deep and staggered about 10 inches apart.

This is done before anything is planted, for the tear gas will destroy all growth. It is very effective in killing all weeds. There are no bad after-effects on the fertility of the soil itself and after three or four weeks the ground is ready for planting.

The gas kills wilt and rot fungi, organisms which normally have the staying power to lie in the soil for five or six years and still be able to attack plants. The gas is particularly effective against nematodes, which are barely visible, hair-like organisms that cause knots on roots and lower the vitality of plants.

At Cornell the experiments are conducted in greenhouses. On Long Island they have been tried successfully outdoors. In one test the use of tear gas doubled the production of cut carnations.

Pardon Us!

It Seems That We Slipped On An Old Banana Peeling When We Publicized The Dope On 'Phenagle'

By DAMON RUNYON

WE got hit with everything but the water bucket, as the saying is, when we stuck out our beard on the word "phenagle". We assured Miss Lois Caldwell of Beckley, W. Va., that the reason she could not find the word in her dictionary was because it was not there. But now we know what we long have half suspected, that our knowledge of the dictionary is somewhat incomplete.

The word is there, all right, but not as "phenagle" the guise in which we grossly deceived Miss Caldwell. It is as "finagle", a variant of the word "fainaigue", or "fainague", (we find it spelled both ways) and while the definitions vary slightly, the general meaning of "finagle" is to hornswoggle someone. One dictionary says it means "to achieve one's purpose by artifice or trickery; sometimes implying fraudulence."

We were apprised, virtually by return mail, of the above facts by a number of our omnivorous readers. By so many, in fact, that we remain in a state of astonishment at the popularity of the dictionary. It ought to be on the best seller lists. Everybody seems to be reading it. Some of our correspondents were very kind in calling our attention to our error, speaking to us in the manner of one addressing a backward child, but others were disposed to be most severe.

THUS we have taken considerable punishment, besides suffering much embarrassment, which is rendered all the more acute by the reflection that we are the same fellow who used to criticize baseball players for mental muddlings on the field of action. We can think of no good explanation for our skulleroo at the moment, though we recall a sage observation that bone is where you find it.

Among those who undertook to get us straightened out were some of our fellow newspapermen, including Samuel H. Caufman Jr. of the News-Journal of Wilmington, Del., and Pierre de Rohan of the New York Post, who was a dramatic critic when we were writing sports on the New York American and helped compile the Oxford Dictionary. He says "fainaigue" is the original and correct form of "finagle" and that the latter version "probably derives from Shakespeare's notoriously smelly spelling."

A patently erudite gentleman on the New York Daily Mirror, who wishes to remain anonymous, goes into a right comforting discourse on the matter of our boot. That is, it is comforting to us, because he attributes it to our erroneous idea of the spelling —"phenagle" instead of "finagle"—though he charitably refrains from the suggestion that we might have asked some of the many confirmed readers of the dictionary. He quotes from the Mirror's office dictionary, Webster's Unabridged, 1927:

"Finagle, finagler, variants of fainague, fainaguer.

"Fainague, to revoke at cards; thence to shirk; to use underhand methods; to cheat; to resort to devious methods; to intrigue. Cf. feign."

OUR correspondent thinks it is in the etymology of "feign" that we find the history of "finagle", reciting that among the obsolete meanings given for the former word are to shirk, to avoid, to dissemble, to conceal. He says he has no doubt that if we further look up the word "finagle" we will find it used long ago, a thing that often has occurred to him when he investigated words he supposed to have been invented in his lifetime.

In any event, "finagle" is of slang deriviation just as we told Miss Caldwell. The nearest approach we find to it in our old slang dictionaries is the word "feaguing", a form of cheating in horse trading a couple of centuries ago. And Morris Spergel of 1706 Nelson ave., the Bronx, New York, insists that "finagle" come from a German word meaning to cloud an issue. Which is about enough of this gab, except that the Mirror man's letter reminds us that we have seen that dictionary in the Mirror office of which he speaks. Once we beheld with our own eyes a fellow consulting it.

He was Dan Parker, the sports editor, and he was looking for a word that adequately would describe a prize fight manager. We wish he had known about "finagler".

Right On The Beak

By Truman Twill

THE chirping fringe that mopes around the edges of the Audubon society, not quite willing to take the pledge but anxious to be coaxed, is stalking me with bird lime, nests, traps, poisoned corn and small-gauge shotguns for saying, a few days ago, that birds leave us cold.

One of these twittery fellows warbles in liquid tones that he cannot be bitter, only sorry, and suggests that the veins of a man who does not love birds must "distil vinegar that sours life and clouds the vision with a tarnish that hides from him the beauties and the wonders which are open to other eyes."

Undoubtedly, this feathered befriender was all hopped up over news that the quail had just been made safe for posterity by the Ohio legislature. But let it go. As Gertrude Stein would say a bird is a bird when it's a bird. The letter containing the indictment of Twill for not going bird-brained about birds has some elegant flights of fancy in it. To wit:

"You never have seen the cardinal flashing his gay color against winter snow and swelling his throat with song to say that spring again will come. . . . . You never have heard the robin singing his brave defiance to cold and wind which would send poor, weakling humans cowering and crying to shelter. . . . You never have watched the cheerful little sparrows bustling about with hopeful energy digging their food from snow-blanketed fields. . . .

"You never have seen a swallow skimming through the twilight sky nor the merry flicker of a chickadee through autumn tangle of weeds, nor a grouse in roaring bullet-like flight through a sapling tangle, nor a meadow lark winging toward heaven and singing as he goes. . . . You never have heard the whip-poor-will from the edge of the wood at dusk, nor the mourning dove's requiem from the cedars, nor the mocking bird sending an immortal aria across a lazy river when the hills are golden in the sunset. . . ."

I've hear and seen all that and more—humming birds hovering over their thimble nests, gulls soaring tirelessly against backdrops of azure blue, wild geese outlined against the autumn moon and wise old owls pondering the eternal verities while they waited for a chance to pounce on squirming, squealing little mice—and I still don't like birds. If it's all the same, I'll take fish. Maybe it's an impulse to rally to the defense of the underdog, but fish are much more admirable—and more edible to boot.

"Auld Lang Syne" the most famous New Year song in the world, was composed by Robert Burns in 1789 as an example of an old Scottish song. The words were set to the present familiar tune about 10 years later.

Capital must sacrifice. Management must sacrifice. Labor must sacrifice. And shame be to him who says the other fellow must sacrifice first. —O. J. Arnold, president, Northwestern National Life Insurance Co.

Institutions at all times should be looked upon as practical and changeable means and never as enduring ends. — Dr. Edwin Nicholson, Columbia Teacher's college.

Oratorio 'Redemption' To Be Given By Guest Artists On Wednesday

Prominent Pittsburgh, Beaver and East Liverpool church soloists will take part in the oratorio, "The Redemption", (Gounod), which will be sung by the Ohio Valley Oratorio choir Wednesday at 8:15 p. m. in the First Presbyterian church.

This is the most deeply religious of all oratorios. It depicts the passion and death of Christ. His Ressurection and Ascension and the mission of the Apostles.

The program will be directed by E. Ellsworth Giles, former soloist and minister of music in the First Presbyterian church of New York during pastorate of Dr. Howard Duffield and who was with Dr. S. Parks Cadman and the late Bishop of New York for some time.

This is the first time that "The Redemption" has been presented in this section of the Ohio and Beaver valley. It is being sung by other choirs this week in three of New York's largest churches, the Riverside, the Brick Presbyterian and St. Bartholemew's.

The musical program is open to the public. No offering will be taken.

U. S. MAY ADOPT IMPORT CONTROL

Program Seen As Next Step In Economic Defense

By IRVING PERLMETER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 8—Highly-placed officials said today creation of a system of import control may constitute the next step in the government's rapidly expanding economic defense program.

Under this system a government control agency would be authorized to determine what foreign merchandise should be admitted to the United States and what should be excluded.

However, the plan is regarded as so drastic, since it might exclude such items as Japanese silk, that the officials are unwilling to predict when, if at all, it may be instituted. So far, they explained, it is merely in the discussion stage.

Action To Date Reviewed

"Economic defense" is a name officials give to any sort of economic action expected to help the United States and the British allies and to impede the war effort of the Axis powers.

Principal evidences of the program to date have been the "freezing" of $4,500,000,000 worth of assets held in this country by 13 European nations which have come under the domination of either the Axis powers or Russia; institution of suits to break up alleged German influence in patent monopolies on articles vital to the national defense, particularly magnesium and optical instruments; setting up of export controls which restrict the shipment of scrap iron, aviation gasoline and hundreds of other items, and Export-Import bank loans to Argentina and other Latin-American countries to facilitate their cooperation with both the United States and Great Britain.

Ship Seizures Fit In

The recent seizure of 69 German, Italian and Danish ships in American ports also is considered in official circles to fit into the economic defense picture.

What officials call "preclusive buying" of strategic war materials to prevent their purchase by Axis agents has been advocated as another economic move.

Tippler Helps But Pays

WABASH, Ind—When a tippler found he had imbibed too much at a local tavern, he decided to beat police to the draw. Accordingly, he phoned headquarters and told police to "come down and pick up a drunk." Police returned the favor with an $11 fine.

The War Today:

Mountains, Weather Aid Allied Balkan Forces; Turkish Neutrality Should Suit England Well

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

NEW YORK, April 8—The Battle of the Balkans, which is bound to have such a great influence on the outcome of the war, continues to be fought fiercely but under a smoke-screen of censorship and bad communications which have deprived the outside world of worth-while information regarding the general trend of the conflict.

The most significant word came this morning from the Nazi high command, which announced that the German offensive on the Yugoslav and Greek fronts is being kept up under adverse conditions in the air and on the ground.

That means the mountains and the narrow gorges and the morass-like roads of spring are fighting for the defenders. It fits in well, too, with a previous Nazi statement that the invaders are meeting stiff resistance.

I hear many inquiries about Turkey's position. The indications are that she intends to remain neutral for the present, at least. As a matter of fact that attitude should suit Britain well, and probably is being pursued with her agreement.

The Turks' long suit now is defense, for while they would be formidable in that role they aren't equipped to wage offensive warfare against the highly-mechanized Nazis. Should the Turks attack across the Bulgarian border they merely would lay themselves open to unnecessary grief.

I should say that Britain much would prefer that Turkey stand guard over the Dardenelles to prevent the Germans from breaking into the Near East for an attack on Egypt. If and when the Turks really are needed in an offensive against Hitler on the Balkan peninsula, it wouldn't be surprising to see them in action.

Overnight reports show that Hitler apparently doesn't intend to slacken his spring blitzkrieg either against the British Isles or against shipping because of the Balkan campaign.

Britain may find herself a considerable gainer, however, in that the fuehrer's offensive in southeast Europe will be burning up gasoline and using other supplies which he ill can afford to lose.

BALKANS

with new planes built in the United States and never yet used in this arena of the war.

Spyros P. Skouras, president of the Greek War Relief association of America, said last night in Los Angeles that all northern Greece has been cleared for action, with 1,000,000 men, women and children—one-eighth of Greece's population—moved south from potential battle areas.

There is no indication whether any major test of battle power has been reached in Yugoslavia, where Yugoslav strategy has been to fall back from the north and northeast to better defending positions, possibly along the Sava and Vardar valleys, where troops would fight with their backs to the mountains.

Italian sources said Greek efforts to break through Fascist lines in Albania to join Yugoslav forces north of Lake Ochrida were broken up and a Greek division virtually wiped out.

Authorized German sources declined to give out specific information on the progress of the Balkan campaign, but told correspondents: "Expect little now — tomorrow you may learn considerably more."

As in the Polish and Scandinavian phases of the war, Germany issued a White Book purportedly disclosing events which led to the new outbreak.

The book declared Yugoslav and Greek policies in 1939 were "contrary to neutrality" and mentioned so-called secret documents which it said gave evidence of an Allied plan to extend the war to the Balkans with Greek and Yugoslav collaboration.

DEATH CLAIMS WILE, NEWSPAPER VETERAN

During his long and active career, Wile covered the Boer war in South Africa for the Chicago Record; represented the London Daily Mail in Berlin at the outbreak of the first World war; headed the Washington bureau of the Philadelphia Public Ledger; and later wrote for the Washington Star. He also wrote a number of books and an autobiography which was published in 1939.

Wile was a colonel of military intelligence in the American Expeditionary Force, a pioneer radio news broadcaster and a lecturer.

WAR PICTURES SHOWN TO LEGION POST HERE

Motion pictures of actual scenes in the European war, filmed by official British photographers, were shown at an open meeting of East Liverpool American Legion post 4 Monday night in the Legion hall on Dresden ave.

More than 100 World war veterans, most of whom saw service with the American expeditionary forces in France, Italy and Belgium during the World war, witnessed the pictures, screened by S. C. Porter, commander.

The "shots" showed scenes in the so-called battle of France, the fall of Paris and the rout of the English and French armies at Dunkirk. Another reel showed Great Britain's navy in action against Hitler's fleet off the Norwegian coast and Nazi raiders bombing Norway and Belgium.

Mr. Porter also showed color pictures he filmed himself of the horse races, a bathing beauty contest and other events in Miami, Fla., during February. Lunch was served by a committee of Legionnaires in conclusion.

Garbage Fight Rages

YOUNGSTOWN, April 8 — Garbage collections will end at 6 p. m. today unless the city provides satisfactory disposal. Judge George H. Gessner ruled yesterday that garbage may not be buried on abandoned Lansdowne airport. Nearby residents asked an injunction, contending the burial is a health menace. County officials have refused to permit garbage burial outside the city.

RESIDENTS IN CHESTER WARNED ABOUT FIRES

Mayor Harry Abrams of Chester Monday night issued a sharp warning that persons negligent in burning brush or refuse will be subject to arrest and fine.

His warning came after a large brush fire at 6:30 p. m. yesterday in a vacant lot at Ninth st. and Carolina ave. The blaze, which firemen reported caused no damage, swept a field that adjoined the freight station of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.

The fire also brought a rebuke of motorists from Fire Chief Lawrence Cline. He promised arrests and fines if motorists continue to impede fire fighting by turning their vehicles around in front of fire trucks and then blocking the apparatus enroute to blazes.

Chief Cline said, "It is the practice of many of our citizens to jump into their cars when they hear the siren and then wait until the trucks approach. Without thinking, they then turn around in front of the trucks and try to lead us to the fires. This practice must and will be stopped!"

He also rapped motorsists who follow trucks to fires and swarm around the scene and otherwise interfere with firemen.

PALESTINE INCREASES BUDGET TO $199,281

Special To The Review.

EAST PALESTINE, April 8 — Council Monday night approved an appropriation ordinance of $199,281 for operating city departments during the next 12 months. The budget, $49,785 more than last year's appropriation of $149,496 was sent to the county commissioners today for approval.

Major item in the appropriation boost was $21,250 for swimming pool bonds, and a $10,000 increase in the operation of the municipal light plant. The latter will cover the cost of a truck purchase recently approved.

The park commission budget was boosted from $3,000 to $5,000, while the water department was allotted $5,500 more than last year. The only decrease was in the health department figure, from $1,035 to $1,012. This cut represented the clerk's telephone bill, which the city previously paid.

BOYS' FARM PROJECT SET FOR WELLSVILLE

The gas was shut off before timbers in the house were ignited and no damage resulted.

The department also extinguished grass fires on Pope ave. at 4:47 p. m., and near Monaca st., East End, at 6:45 p. m.

'INNER MAN' SOUGHT FOR ROBBERY SERIES

3 Schools And One Tavern Looted, Another Damaged

Special To The Review.

LISBON, April 8 — The "inner man" could be a suspect in the looting of three schools and a tavern, as food and drink were taken, but Sheriff George Hayes today sought real suspects.

Reports were investigated Monday of the theft of a quantity of surplus foodstuffs, used for children's lunches, from the Oak Grove school in Wayne township, and the inquiry was pushed after the discovery that two other schools participating in the hot-lunch project also were looted of food.

The Hammond school in Yellow Creek township was entered sometime during the week-end, as was the Forest Hill school in Wayne township. H. A. Moore, county surplus commodities director who supplies the schools with the federal surplus foodstuffs for the children's meals, estimated the loss in each school at $10 to $20.

In the tavern case, the Silver bar at New Waterford was burglarized Monday night while the Southern tavern in Negley was damaged when bricks were thrown through the window, but the latter case is believed to be grudge vandalism because the proprietor refused to sell a suspect a drink after hours.

Loot at the Silver bar consisted of $27 in cash, mostly silver, a half-barrel of beer, two quarts of wine and a quart of whisky.

RAILWAY FIRES THREE AS RESULT OF WRECK

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, April 8—Erie railroad has dismissed three employes as a result of the Windham train wreck in which two Ravenna arsenal workers were killed and 201 others injured, it was learned Monday.

Disciplinary action against the employes followed a report by the state utilities commission inspector blaming two instances of human failure for the wreck.

The men discharged were not identified immediately, but it was said that M. M. Mitchell, train dispatcher, is not among the three. Mitchell, it was charged in the report of Commission Inspector W. E. Harrington, "forgot" the eastbound train which crashed into the commuter train.

An Erie spokesman, commenting on the inspector's report, asserted the road already maintains automatic signals at the scene of the wreck.

Graser, whose familiar call, "Hi, yo Silver!" was the trademark of his radio adventures, had been on the air as the "Lone Ranger" for the last nine years on a network originating with a Detroit radio station.

The station announced that Brace Beamer, the original "Lone Ranger" will return to his former role.

STATE

WHEN a white collar girl falls for a Philadelphia "Main Liner" there's stormy weather ahead. Ginger Rogers as "Kitty Foyle", the part that won her the 1940 "Oscar", finds it hard sledding to combat the very social family and traditions of Wyn Strafford VI in the State theater's return engagement film opening today.

Taken from Christopher Morley's best seller, the picture related the career of Kitty from her schooldays in a drab Philly suburb to business success. The two highlights of the action are the vivid love affair with her society man and her quieter romance with a rising young doctor.

To carry out the stream of consciousness method employed by Morley, the film reviews the outstanding moments of Kitty's existence as her "inner" voice reminisces and comments on her impressions.

Dennis Morgan is cast as Wyn and James Craig plays the role of Mark, the M. D. Eduardo Ciannelli, Ernest Cossart and Gladys Cooper also are featured.

HEART'S HAVEN

Ruth Rosemary Corby

YESTERDAY: Julie Emerson, who is an actress a little past her prime, and her young friend Eve have won some money in an advertising contest, and Julie has insisted on investing it in a month at an expensive hotel on the chance that Eve can pick up a young husband for herself—with money. She just has wangled an invitation out of wealthy Mrs. Marbury, yet she has a feeling Eve will not be too pleased.

CHAPTER TWO

Party

"MRS. MARBURY has asked us up for cocktails tomorrow afternoon," Julie announced with some triumph in her voice. "You see, dear, I was right about coming here—and please try to act a little less bored, won't you, Eve? Even if you do think we're wasting the money, you might as well enjoy yourself while we're here."

Eve turned her head so that it rested on her arm, while she looked at her self-appointed guardian. "I thought you looked as if you had just swallowed a canary when I came in—in spite of the eye-pads. Of course I'll try to be the gay young thing, if you want me to, but for heaven's sake, Julie, let's cancel our reservation next week and go back to New York. I could still get back my old job at the Sheraton Decorating shop and we'd have some money left, anyhow."

"But we have over two thousand dollars left!" Julie said with astonishment. "And of course you can't walk into a place like this and get to know everyone within five days. We really should stay, Eve, now that we're just getting to know the right people. You'll feel better about it, too, I'm sure, when you meet Mrs. Marbury's niece—Gina Goodbell—and her friends."

"Oh, Gina Goodbell!" said Eve enigmatically.

"Don't you like her?" inquired Julie anxiously.

"I probably would if I ever got the chance," retorted Eve. "But after all, she is the heiress to the Marbury lumber milions. In spite of your hopes, Julie, I'm just a poor working girl and Gina and I don't have much in common, I'm afraid."

And there was slight friction in the Marbury suite as well.

"But—Aunt Helen, you won't ruin the afternoon with that — that architect, will you?" Gina Goodbell's light voice was a wail, as she watched her aunt directing the caterer in the "bridal suite" at the Ocean Park hotel.

Gina matched her voice: her blonde hair hung in softly waved lengths around a pert, childish face that was too sharp to be pretty. She could, if she wished, look like an angel straying out of her celestial world, but usually, as now, she looked merely like an annoyed kitten. Mrs. Marbury, however, knew that Gina's claws could be sharp, and she hastened to reassure her niece.

"He's not an architect, darling—he's an expert on early American houses; there's quite a difference."

"What difference?"

"Oh, don't be trivial, dear —" Her aunt vaguely moved a tray of canapes nearer the edge of the table. She did hope Gina would forget her petulance. If she actually took a dislike to Brett Rodman there would be little hope of getting her interested in this house. As the waiter left the room, she clutched at the first straw that came to mind.

"And by the way, dear—I've invited that nice Mrs. Emerson and her niece to come up. She's such a good bridge player—and interested in old houses, too. We had quite a chat about it."

"You do pick up the strangest people, Aunt Helen. You've scarcely seen this Mrs. Emerson a dozen times. . . ." Gina's voice wandered off, as she lit a cigaret and stuck it in a long amber holder.

Mrs. Marbury thought it time to be authoritative. "I don't 'pick up people,' Gina—and it's disrespectful of you to use that tone. I knew some Emersons once, out in Chicago—fine people—and I'm sure this Mrs. Emerson must be related. It seems to me the younger generation condemns everyone it doesn't know."

"Darling!" Gina was all contrition, her blonde hair a scented cloud as she swooped down on her aunt and kissed her soft cheek. "I'll keep the crowd under control for the sake of these cronies of yours. But the niece is such a queer duck—always dodging off and looking down her nose. It's a nice nose too—funny she hasn't just swarms of men around."

Hunt For Moonlight

To Eve and Julie, presenting themselves at the Marbury suite at five-thirty, the hostess and her niece seemed to be in perfect accord. Mrs. Marbury came forward instantly and drew them into a group of chattering young people, whom she introduced with vague gestures right and left.

Eve instantly identified Gina; she was curious to see what type of girl she could be. She noticed with surprise that Gina was regarding her with the same chillenging expression. It was Gina who spoke first, and held out her hand.

"Hello!"

"Why—hello!" Eve's husky voice held a surprised note. Gina's welcome had taken her entirely off guard. The next minute Gina's arm was slipped through hers, and Eve was turned half away from the crowd.

"All those who want to be presented—the line forms at the right," Gina announced, her long red-tipped fingers warding off the men nearest. "I'm not going to have this gal killed in the rush."

"Just introduce her to me, then." A young blond giant looked down at Eve unsmilingly, but she suspected there were dimples. "I'll protect her."

"You're the worst of the lot!" Gina's retort brought a ready grin, and Eve saw that, as she had thought, there was one lopsided dimple. "But I suppose I'll have to do it. Eve, this in Neil Bowron, third, and if he even mentions moonlight, run like a deer. This is Evangeline Prentice, Neil."

"I like moonlight," said Eve thoughtfully. Instantly Neil stooped, picked her up in his arms, and started for the door.

"Out of my way," he commanded Gina. "We're going to look for some moonlight."

In the ensuing hubbub, Eve found herself set on her feet again, slightly bewildered, but having entirely lost her first feeling of strangeness. No one seemed to object to the little scene. The girls told her carelessly "not to mind Neil" and the men crowded up for their introduction until Neil was pushed into the background.

One slight earnest - looking young man whose hair was perpetually in his eyes, came up just as Eve began to look for Julie.

"I'm Hamilton Millard," he said casually. "My friends call me Ham. I hope you don't think we're just a bunch of roughnecks."

"Not at all," Eve managed, although her heart was thumping heavily. "Usually introductions are so dull, don't you think?"

"Good girl!" Ham caught Gina's hand as she walked by and said in a stage whisper: "If I don't propose some night—this is the reason why." He pointed a finger at Eve.

Gina's small face was unexpectedly serious. "I don't believe I'd mind," she said slowly. "I'm afraid I'm going to like her Ham."

Fun At Last

The rest of them evidently accepted Gina's pronouncement, and Eve found herself the center of a laughing group that dissolved and came together again with apparent lack of design. Yet she knew, even without glancing over her shoulder, that Neil Bowron was always near at hand. For the first time since she had come to the hotel—indeed, for the first time in many months—Eve began to enjoy herself.

She forgot that she did not belong, that most of these young people—even Neil—were accepting her on face value. She entered into their running comment on the hotel and its lack of excitement, until a question from one of the girls brought her up short.

"Are you coming down to Spring Lake next month?" she inquired. "Don't stay at the hotel—we can put you up."

Eve caught her breath and hoped she did not look as startled as she felt.

"My aunt must return to New York," she said fumblingly. "We—we haven't made any plans beyond that."

Again Eve looked desperately for Julie, but she and Mrs. Marbury were sitting at ease in a corner, talking briskly and paying no attention to the others. Eve was hoping for escape when she felt Neil's hand on her arm. She glanced up gratefully.

"The moonlight's turned off — but there's a nice sunset out on the terrace," he said in a low tone. "Maybe we could make it do. What do you think?"

Eve nodded, and together they strolled to the long, open windows.

Julie, happening to see them go, interrupted her hostess' often-repeated complaint about Mr. Rodman's lateness.

"Who is that with Eve?" she asked with a shade of concern. The man was too handsome to be true, she told herself.

Mrs. Barbury looked around, and locating them just as they stepped outside, said placidly, "Oh, that's Neil. Neil Bowron, you know. Nice boy. I knew his mother quite well at one time, but she's lived abroad now for the last five years. She married a count, I believe. Well—at last!"

Her exclamation was directed toward two men who came in at that moment and stood, obviously ill at ease, just where the maid had left them. The older man was almost bald, and his head shone almost as much as his unrimmed glasses. The other man, looking around with what Julie privately thought was a disdained expression, appeared more at ease, but defiant, as if he dared the assembled party to do its worst.

GOEBBELS TAKES SLAP AT U. S. WITH CARTOON

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 8 — Propaganda Minister Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff in a page one cartoon Monday implied that the United States had a hand in alleged mistreatment of "volksdeutsche" (German people) by Yugoslavs in Yugosalvia.

PERKINS URGES UNITY OF LABOR, EMPLOYER

Secretary First Witness At House Group's Hearing

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8—Secretary of Labor Perkins expressed the view before the house military affairs committee Monday that labor and employer have a responsibility to cooperate in avoiding delays and interruptions in defense production.

Appearing as the first witness in the committee's investigation of labor conditions in defense industries, the labor secretary said in a statement that there is a danger of "over-emphasizing as well as under-emphasizing" the labor situation in defense industries.

"We all realize," Miss Perkins said, "that there must be continuity of production in the defense program.

"Responsibility for stoppages of work does not fall solely upon labor or solely upon management.

"Lack of mutual confidence as between the particular employers and particular labor group is usually at the back of failure to negotiate."

The new defense mediation board "already has shown it has the confidence of labor, management and the public," she said.

Gives Thanks To Friend & Ton Jon No. 3

Conversation Led to Adena Man Finding Relief From Prostate Trouble, Awful Pain, Swelling, Nightly Rising (25 times) a Night.

"On day not long ago a friend and I were talking and he told me that I should take TONJON No. 3, explaining how it had relieved him of Prostate Worries; this conversation led me to the first relief I'd known in two years," stated Mr. Winfield Smith, Jefferson county highway employee and Methodist church member, residing on R. R. No. 1, Adena, Ohio.

"The lower part of my back below my kidneys ached, and I had miserable aching in my arms, legs, and in the back of my neck. My legs would cramp so that at times I hardly straightened them out. My hands, feet and legs would take spells of swelling and the muscles would become sore."

"Prostate trouble made kidney passages hard to start and my bladder was never completely relieved when I would urinate. I have had to get up as high as twenty-five times a night because of this trouble and as a result from the lack of rest and sleep I would awaken in the morning with a very sick headache; feeling all worn out and tired. My appetite was not what it should be."

"TONJON No. 3 has corrected my prostate trouble and now I am able to get a full night's sleep and rest and am able to go about my work without that worn out feeling.

"I want to recommend this wonderful Medicine to all, as it is better than any medicine I have ever taken. Here's hoping that others suffering in the same way will give TONJON No. 3 a trial."

TONJON is the talk of the people all over this entire section and you can hear people on every street corner telling someone else what a blessing these new medicines are. So if you are sick you owe it to yourself to give it a fair trial. The TONJON HEALTH REPRESENTATIVE invites you to come and see him at REZNOR'S East Liverpool.

COUNCIL PASSES BILL FOR WATER PLANT SUPPLIES

Watkin Authorized To Buy Materials, Equipment And Make Repairs

City council gave unanimous approval Monday night to a resolution authorizing Safety-Service Director William Watkin to purchase a supply of pipe and chemicals, 200 new meters, two chlorinators and other equipment for the waterworks department.

Repairs also were authorized for two elevators in the waterworks pumping and filtration plants to forestall a threat from the state department of industrial relations that both would be put out of service if the equipment and safety devices were not improved.

Material Bids Slated

Mr. Watkin was empowered to advertise for bids on the materials and elevator repairs. Funds for both are set up in the 1941 appropriation. Materials include 200 tons of cast iron pipe and fittings, 250 tons of sulphate of alumina, 250 tons of hydrate of lime, two visible vacuum chlorinators, 200 meters and an Addressograph.

The pipe order represents the amount the department expects to use this year in replacement of present lines and extensions, Mr. Watkin said. It is being ordered in one shipment in hopes it will be delivered before national defense priority orders interfere, he said.

The chlorinators will be used to supplant two similar machines that virtually are worn out, the director said. The Addressograph, a mechanical device for addressing bills sent out from the waterworks office, also replaces antedated equipment.

State Warnings Cited

The outlay for the new meters eventually will come back to the city tills, as homeowners who have them installed pay small amounts on their quarterly bills to defray the cost.

The state had issued several ultimatums threatening to seal the plant elevators unless improvements were made.

Inspectors said both lifts should be enclosed on all sides except the entrance to a height of six feet; have a solid top capable of sustaining a maximum of 150 pounds, a gate installed at the entrance; an electric light, controlled from a switch within the car, and a pit of not less than three feet below the lowest landing.

WPA Authorized To Launch Research In City's Records

Council passed on a large budget of minor business, reports and claims in the session last night—the first regular meeting in three weeks.

Approval was given a project presented by L. W. McIntyre, representing the WPA's Columbiana county historical records survey, which, he said, will conduct research on the city's records and publish a volume of summaries also showing their condition, location and number.

The city would furnish $50 toward the cost—receiving about 50 volumes that would be distributed to schools, libraries and other public buildings and officials, Mr. McIntyre said. Wellsville, Lisbon and Salem also plan to have similar surveys made, he said.

Mr. McIntyre said the book would show detailed facts on records of council, the police department, waterworks office and municipal court.

Bus Firm Offers To Help Pay For Slag On Heights

Mr. Watkin announced the Valley Motor Transit Co. has offered to furnish $100 toward the purchase of slag to improve the surfaces of Wyoming and Northside aves. "Not long ago we put 21 truckloads of ashes on Wyoming ave.—but a week later it was in bad condition again," the director said, pointing out that some ruts on the street are almost three feet deep. Announcing that the street department has begun scrapping and cindering unimproved streets, Mr. Watkin said: "We're progressing with the work just as quickly as possible."

Council Acts On Claims Submitted By Car Owners

Acting on the recommendation of the claims committee headed by Homer Amos, council rejected a claim of L. E. Ehlenbaugh of Pleasant Heights for $3 damage to his auto caused, he alleged, when it was struck by a city incinerator truck. The claims committee also was instructed to investigate a complaint by B. C. Caldwell of Arner ave. that a city truck uprooted a fruit tree in the lawn at his home.

Roy Mahoney, West End Negro, appeared before council to inquire the status of a claim he filed several months ago for damage to his auto caused, he said, when it struck a hole near a sewer opening on Ninth st. Mr. Amos said the claim had been denied—and Mr. Mahoney countered with the request that the depression be filled "for the safety of the public."

Council received and filed a petition signed by 16 Sunnyside ave. residents asking installation of a streetlight in their neighborhood.

'Hughie' Begins His 39th Year With Police Department Here

Chief Hugh J. McDermott, veteran law enforcement officer, is beginning his 39th year as a member of the East Liverpool police force.

It was April 6, 1903, that 23-year-old Hughie McDermott was named a patrolman—a job that meant work 12 hours a day, seven days a week and 52 weeks a year.

Thomas "Tim" Thompson, then head of the department, promptly assigned the new rookie to the wide-open "Bowery" beat on Second st., known as one of the toughest sectors between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. Saloons and so-called winerooms abounded, and mayhem, robbery and brawls were the order of the day.

But young McDermott, a strapping lad with handy fists, managed to administer law and order in large and frequent doses to the toughs in the era when the gaslight and bustle shimmered.

The Second st. beat proved his mettle and he moved up in the ranks—becoming the city's first police captain and later chief. He has worked under 12 mayors, including Mayor O. Earl Greenawalt, W. A. Weaver, V. A. Schreiber and Lee Copenhaver.

His career encompasses detection of crimes running the gamut from petty thievery and peeping Toms to spectacular holdups and violent and mysterious murders.

The chief was philosophical on the city's crime when he basked in the sun that streamed through his office window Monday and looked back on nearly four decades of chasing criminals.

"East Liverpool is one of the cleanest towns in the state," he declared. "It's a community of steady, solid citizens—a town of church-goers and homeowners."

"We've come a long way these last years," he continued. "Why, 38 years ago there was upwards of 100 drug addicts in the city—but today we don't have one narcotic victim."

Tri-State Directors Whipping Into Shape Fifth Tourney For Girls Here April 17, 18 And 19; Veteran Voima Five First To Sign For Event

—By Floyd E. Weidman—

WITH the 16th annual boys' Tri-State basketball tournament now history, the directors are whipping into shape their fifth floor event for girls, slated April 17, 18 and 19. If the lasses are half as attractive as the trophies unveiled in Heimie's window last night, the affair should be a sight to see.

Although the deadline for entering is next Monday night, one team —Voima A. C. of Warren, O.—already has registered for the event. Voima, a veteran of last season's meet, will return with four holdovers from the '40 squad, eliminated in the tri-finals by the Filarets of Rochester, N. Y., 60-21. The World's Champion A. A. U. Filarets went on to whip the Nokolds of Cleveland, 30-26, for the title.

The Voima veterans will be Lillian Gomsey, Pearl Pantilia, Anna Maki and Clara Lindquist. They will be accompanied here by Olive Lenney, Vivian Kintala, Esther Hill, Irene Noland and Hilda Lampila.

While Voima is the only team officially entered to date, several of last year's participants have indicated they will compete again. Akron Goodrich local No. 5, voted by floor officials as the team displaying the best sportsmanship in the '40 event, is expected to sign, as is City Loan of Cleveland, comprised of last year's Nokold squad of Marge Kelley, Marge Fischlin, Marge Teachout, Marge Wood, et al. In addition, the famed Blepp-Combs team of Cleveland is expected to enter.

A Note For Local Anglers . . .

LOCAL anglers who head for Rice Lake, Ont., and points north will be interested in a dispatch which comes to hand anent a lure of the Ontario government to land a mess of American fishermen come summer.

In a direct bid for the good old hard American dollar, Ontario this year will offer a new short-term fishing license and six $100 prizes for non-resident fishermen, according to H. C. Nixon, minister of fish and game.

The three-day non-resident $2 license will be effective from April 15 to Nov. 15, while the 100 berries will be paid for the biggest fish caught by a non-resident. However, the prize quarry must come under the heading of speckled trout, lake trout, small-mouth bass, muskellunge, yellow pickerel or wall-eyed pike and great northern pike.

Competition judges will be D. J. Taylor, deputy minister of fish and game; Frank McDougall, superintendent of Algonquin park, and Ernest Shepard, editor of Hunting and Fishing in Canada magazine. Second and third prizes will be paid in each class, but rules bar fish caught in club pools.

Among local disciples of Izaak Walton who annually trek to Rice Lake at Bewdley, Ont., are: Ted Ganas, Carl Fife, Elmer Skelton and family, Dan Richards and family, Carroll P. Lynch, Dr. V. E. McEldowney and family and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Chadwick. Mrs. Chadwick last year bagged a 20-pound muskinonge that measured 47 inches.

Incidentally, our own Earl Tweed currently is showing a couple of big ones that didn't get away, along with various and sundry sports cups and plaques in a display window on the Diamond. Earl snagged his finny friends at Trout Lake, Ont. One, a 38-pound muskie, is 50 inches long, while the other is a 22-inch, six-pound large-mouth.

Bill Lowers Tries Out . . .

BILL LOWERS who twirled for the Merchants in the East Liverpool Junior baseball league last year, is at Middletown, O., where he's trying out for a berth on the Armco nine.

Bill, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Lowers of Lincoln highway, will remain in Middletown throughout this week and demonstrate his wares under the critical eyes of Bubbles Hargraves, former Cincinnati Red. He began drills Sunday afternoon.

The Armco nine—short for American Rolling Mill Co.,—boasts one of the finest fields for semi-pro ball in the state and plays most of its games at night.

Grover C. Washabaugh, Westminster college basketball mentor, is slated as principal speaker, while Hubert A. George is chairman of the committee, which is planning other entertainment. The affair will be sponsored by the Midland Board of Trade.

TAFT ROBERTS, who promoted several amateur ring shows at the Eagles club here during the winter, writes from Hollywood, Calif., "Having a good time, but will be back soon to run the fights."

Maybe those heavy dews in sunny California dampened Taft's yen for a career he had cut out for himself as a cop in a Hollywood movie studio.

Anyhow, if Taft's future ring exploits are as lively as his last here, he'll be a good man to have around.

UNCLE SAM'S FORCES TO SEE GAMES 'FREE'

By The Associated Press.

MANSFIELD, O., April 8—Any member of Uncle Sam's fighting forces may see Ohio State baseball league games free this year—provided he wears his uniform.

Representatives of the league's six teams adopted the "free admission" resolution last night at their final meeting before the May 14 season opener.

Each of the clubs—Mansfield, Tiffin, Findlay, Fostoria, Lima and Fremont—paid $600 entry fees.

The league decided that its all-star game this year would pit the winners of the first half of the split season against a nine selected from the other five teams.

Joe Connelly of Columbus, league president, announced that 21 umpires would be given 10-day tryouts beginning May 3 and from that number six would be selected to work the season.

State Poloists Defeat Cincy In Weird Tilt

Queen City Team Borrows 4 Horses, Two Players

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, April 8—Flashing the spotlight around the Ohio sports scene:

There was kidding on the campus today as Ohio State university's polo team celebrated its first victory of the campaign. The kidding centers around the Bucks' Saturday clash with the Cincinnati Cavalry.

Only two members of the Queen City quartet showed up. One was a left-hander, and the other wore glasses with a protective guard. to round out their personnel, the invaders borrowed four Ohio horses and two Ohio substitutes.

Then the regulation game of eight chukkers of seven minutes each was cut to four sessions of five minutes each.

And, after all that, the Ohio squad won by 3 to 0—giving the Bucks one victory and three defeats for the season.

Jesse Owens, the "ebony antelope" who spread Ohio State university's fame when he starred as a world-record holder in four track events, is starting his comeback down the cinder paths at the Salem high school relays May 3.

Jesse, who holds the world marks at 100 and 220 yards, the broad jump and the low hurdles, will run an exhibition quarter mile at Salem—an event he never tried during his college career. The Negro flash, who has been training daily on the cinders at O.S.U. where he is completing his education, believes he can shave something off the present record for the 440.

Short shots: Bowling Green has lined up the longest basketball schedule in its history for 1941-42, with 20 contests, including 16 in the Ohio conference. And Coach Paul E. Landis is looking for Dec. 19 and 20 games.

Prospect, runner-up in Class B last year, is the first entry in for Ohio Wesleyan's annual relays scheduled April 26. George E. Gauthier, Wesleyan athletic chief, says 75 teams and 900 boys are expected to compete.

George Zavistoske, junior halfback from Racine, Wis., is the latest loss to Ohio State's football team. The speedy back is "gone with the draft," having received his notification Monday, thus leaving the way open for one of Coach Paul Brown's reserves to move up to the varsity squad.

Wittenberg's Ohio conference champion gridders will play seven of their eight games in the league next fall, only Lawrence Tech being met in non-loop warfare. Five men regarded as regulars are on the draft list, and may go this summer.

Training Camp Highlights

LUBBOCK, Tex.—Phil Cavarretta, Chicago Cubs' outfielder-first baseman, may get a chance on the mound as the result of his showing in exhibitions. Manager Jimmy Wilson, who converted Bucky Walters into a pitcher, says 24-year-old Phil looked good in a recent mound appearance.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—Manager Del Baker doesn't know where his Detroit Tigers will finish in the coming American league race, but he cheerfully adds, "neither does anybody else." Instead of predicting, Baker says: "All I can say is that we'll do the best we can with what we have."

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Add Jimmy Foxx to Gene Thompson's admiring public.

"That kid," said the Boston Red Sox slugger of the Cincinati Reds' pitcher, "broke over two of the best curves I've looked at in many a day in fanning me. I wish he was with us."

Tied at six wins each, the Reds and the Red Sox met for the 13th time today.

PULASKI, Va.—When the Cleveland Indians were getting only two or three hits a game in Florida, the players maintained they would get going once they neared the north. It seems they were right. The Tribe made 16 hits Saturday, 12 Sunday and 11 yesterday, and the week-end clouting included eight home runs.

Ex-Grocery Boy Musto Slated To Last 5 Rounds With Louis

By The Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, April 8—Everything else having failed, a grocery boy has been drafted to oppose Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis tonight.

Tony Musto, a Chicago Italian as short and stubby as a crew haircut, is championship target No. 16 in the parade of fistic talent that has included fat men, skinny men, clowns and even an orthodox pugilist or two in Louis' stop-a-month tour of the country.

Musto, who graduated from delivery boy to steel puddler before turning fighter, will be one of the few persons among the 20,000 expected to jam the arena who thinks he will subdue Louis.

Few bets are available that the scrap will go beyond five rounds—and that curfew is forecast with Musto flat on his back.

Despite the anticipated outcome, Mike Jacobs, New York promoter and Shepherd of the Louis interests, thumbed through $38,000 in advance sales and predicted the total receipts would be $55,000.

The only thing that distinguishes this stop on the Louis tour is that the champion encounters a foe who fights naturally from a crouch.

Except for Tony Galento and Al McCoy, who adopted the underslung style for a night, Louis has tangled only with upright young men.

Another disadvantage which isn't expected to disturb Louis in the least is the challenger's short stature, Standing upright Musto measures 5 feet, 7 inches which is six inches less than Louis. Folded into his fighting pose, the Italian scratches his nose on the champion's belt.

Special To The Review.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 8 —Pitchers needed special attention in the Pirate camp today as a result of the lacing the Buccos took from the Athletics yesterday. The Bucs were smothered, 13 to 6.

Three Pirate pitchers were pounded for 18 hits. It was the third straight loss to the Mackmen. Oadis Swigart, Dick Lanahan and Johnny Lanning did the flinging for the nationals.

The Athletics took the lead in the second on a pair of doubles and a single after Pittsburgh had picked up one tally in the opening frame on a pass and a scratch hit by Garms, and then went ahead in the third on Gustine's walk, a single by Van Robay's and Elliott's triple.

The Pirates pushed two more tallies across in the fourth on Di Maggio's double, a steal and Gustine's single. Garms singled sending Gustine to third and after Vaughan walked to fill the bases Van Robays was passed to force Gustine across.

In the same inning, the Mackmen grabbed the lead on three unearned runs. Vaughan muffed Suder's roller, and Brancato sent him to third with a single. Besse was safe on a fielder's choice, but Garms who fielded the bunt, tossed to the plate and the ball struck Suder between the shoulders to let him score.

Collins sacrificed and a single by Davis sent across both runs.

The Pirates tied it up in the sixth on Gustine's double, an out by Garms and Vaughan's long fly

The Athletics clinched the battle in their half of the sixth when five hits were bunched to knock in four tallies.

EXACT ODDS ON DERBY WINNER QUESTIONABLE

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—For quite a few years, there was confusion as to what were the exact odds on Stone Street, when he won the Kentucky Derby of 1908. The payoff figures were $123.60 straight, and, being assumed that $2 tickets were sold that year, the odds were reckoned at $60.80 to $1. However, the minimum ticket that year was $5, and so the correct odds were $23.72 to $1.

COLUMBUS, April 8—By winning the state swimming championship, Fremont Ross High school gained a place in the public record. A resolution congratulating the school was adopted unanimously last night by the Ohio house of representatives. Its author was Rep. John H. Kowalk (R) of Sandusky county.

Erlanger's Wins Second Half

The National league match last night between Erlanger's and Martino's offered a chance to the latter to win the second half championship if it was able to make a sweep of the three games. Martino's did win the first two games and the title depended on the last contest.

It was a grueling one, but Erlanger's took it, 942 to 857, with the five team members averaging 188 per man. In fact none of the scores missed 188 by much, 199 being the highest and 176 the lowest.

Knowles and Central Shoe had opportunities to tie for the lead by winning three games each and did tie with Martino's as runners-up by winning two out of three.

Here's the league's final standing.

RICKEY SAYS REDBIRDS PLACE MORE IN MAJORS THAN ANY OTHER CHAIN

Says Cardinal System Put More In Big Time In '40 Than All Other 15 Clubs Combined; Defends 'Offspring' With Facts, Figures From Five Minor Farms

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 8 — Branch Rickey, daddy of the much-criticized baseball farm chain, defended his offspring today with facts, figures and a declaration that "the best way for a young ball player to get to the big leagues is to join the St. Louis Cardinal system."

Here visiting the New Orleans Southern association link in the chain, the St. Louis general manager said the Cards "put more players in the majors last year than all other 15 big league clubs combined."

"About 60 men now in the big leagues came from our farms," he said, "besides all our own men. I doubt if any other chain has a dozen men on other clubs."

He sat in the stands, keeping up a fire of comment on the individual characteristics of the New Orleans players. When a hearer expressed surprise that he should know rookies on his minor league teams so well, the outspoken Cardinal boss replied:

Go To Majors Quickly

"It's my business to know them. When one of them has something I want to know it. And he'll go to the top.

"We not only can get a boy to the majors quickly but we have five big minor league clubs—Sacramento, Rochester and Columbus in Class AA and New Orleans and Houston in Class A1. Those offer opportunities along the way.

"The chains saved the minors, and thereby saved baseball. We carried them through the depression. And when we go into a league we don't look for the best team, but for the strategic one — the one that 'carries' the league.

"We help the players, give the fans better baseball, and help the minor leagues, and people point the finger of scorn at us."

NAVY DRAFTS PERRONI AS ATHLETIC TEACHER

By The Associated Press.

ATLANTA, April 8—Enlistment of Patsy Perroni, Canton, heavyweight boxer, in the nation's military service, was announced last night from the ring where he had been billed to meet Lee Savold of Des Moines, Ia., in a 10-round bout.

Substituting for Peronni, Mike Alfano of New York was unable to answer the bell in the third round, his left eye having been closed by Savold's punches in the second.

Promoter Jack Kearns said Perroni was one of a group of eight boxers recruited for the Navy as athletic instructors by Lieutenant Commander Gene Tunney, former world heavyweight champion.

FIRST M.E. COPS 'Y' TOURNAMENT

Top Calvary 15-14, 15-8, In Church Volleyball

First Methodist carried away first honors in the 'Y' Church league volleyball tournament Monday night on the Y.M.C.A. courts by trouncing the Calvary Methodist team, 15-14 and 15-8.

Trailing 10-14 in the first game, the Methodists started placing their shots as a result tied the score at 14-all, and then went on to win. The second tilt caused the Methodists little worry as they took an early lead and held it throughout.

Calvary had defeated First Christian and Anderson Methodist to move into the finals in the upper bracket, while the First M. E.'s conquered Second Christian and St. Aloysius.

Scores of the other games were: Anderson Methodist defeated Second United Presbyterian, 15-8, 15-9; Calvary Methodist defeated First Christian, 15-4, 15-4; First Methodist trimmed Second Christian, 15-1, 15-2, and St. Aloysius topped Boyce Methodist, 15-13, 7-15, 15-9.

In the first quarter-finals, Calvary walloped Anderson, 15-8, 15-11, and First Methodist topped St. Aloysius, 15-11 and 15-1.

The champions lined up with Capt. Jack Fox, Jack Simms, Bob Goodman, Edward Millward, Jim Stull and Charles Deshler.

Runners up were Capt. Jim Obenour, Jim Lowe, Earl Groubert, Jack Allison, David Mullen, Harold Vaughn and Bob Amos.

CHESTER SLATES PAVING PROJECT

Council Also Plans Removal Of Rails In WPA Program

A WPA project for lifting abandoned car rails and blacktopping an alley was drawn up in the major business at a meeting of Chester council Monday night. Rails will be removed on Ninth and 11th sts. and on Carolina and Phoenix aves. between Ninth and 11th sts.

The alley runs from Eighth to 11th sts. between Phoenix and Neptune aves., with the entire project in the fifth ward. Property owners will be requested to pay for blacktopping the alley, while the city expects to derive enough money from the sale of the rails to cover the cost of repaving streets from which they will be removed.

However, work on the proposed project will not begin for at least six weeks, during which time the plans will be submitted for approval in Charleston, W. Va., and Washington.

Louisiana Ave. Improvement Asked

A delegation of property owners from Louisiana ave. asked council to scrape and slag one half of that street between Third and Fourth sts. and an alley of the same distance between Louisiana and Indiana aves.

Council indicated the city will provide labor for the job if the property owners purchase the slag.

In another proposed street improvement program, City Clerk James Paisley was instructed to obtain bids for blacktopping 600 feet of Sixth st. from Indiana to Florida aves., after a request for action on the project by Lester Wehner of Sixth st. The street now has a rock base and curbing and is ready for blacktop.

In other business, council voted to purchase a live evergreen tree, which will be planted in the vacant lot adjoining city hall. The tree will be used for decorating at Christmas.

Receipts, Disbursements Listed

Mayor Harry Abrams reported $95 collected in fines for the quarter which ended March 31, while Clerk Paisley listed $96.67 in licenses issued during the same period. Mr. Paisley also reported a balance of $5,930.47 for the quarter. Disbursements were $5,144.86, leaving a balance of $785.61.

Remittances at last night's meeting included $1,000 from Sheriff Dick Wright for taxes collected; $35.25 from W. F. Looman, rental of city auditorium, and $2.17 from Clerk Paisley licenses issued. Bills of $500 were paid.

The next meeting will be April 21.

STEEL AND RAIL ISSUES RETREAT

Board's Prices Again Slant Downward In Dealings

By VICTOR EUBANK
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 8 — Prices again slanted downward in today's stock market with steels and rails leading the retreat. Losses ranged from fractions to more than a point.

Tagged with minus signs were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, N. Y. Central, Standard Oil of N. J., U. S. Rubber, Douglass Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Air Reduction and Du Pont.

Bonds and commodities were irregular.

Lack of definite information as to just what is happening in the Balkan war, brokers thought, inspired many customers to stand aside.

A market prop was seen in the Federal Reserve summary disclosing another substantial upturn in commercial, industrial and agricultural bank loans throughout the nation.

A constructive interpretation also was placed on the compilation of Comptroller of the Currency Delano indicating most banks have been showing satisfactory profits notwithstanding record low interest rates.

Pastors, Attention!

MINISTERS and church leaders again are reminded of the early deadline for Easter programs intended for publication in Saturday's issue of The Review.

To insure publication, programs of Easter cantatas, sermon subjects and other material should be in The Review office not later than Wednesday. Cooperation of pastors, choir directors, Sunday school superintendents and others in submitting this material early will be appreciated.—Editor.

CROSSINGS

the tracks between the Broadway and Second st. crossings, Mr. Rumberger recounted. Luckily, he explained, the approaching train was not traveling on the track on which the auto stalled, and the motorist escaped injury.

A conference of councilmen with Safety-Service Director William Watkin and City Engineer George Bloomgren was scheduled tentatively for tonight after approval of a motion that the officials seek a more profitable arrangement for removing abandoned streetcar rails in the city.

"It seems to me that the city is losing money on this rail proposition," Councilman Paul Baxter declared. "We understood the project would pay its own way with the city doing the repaving—but there are several outstanding bills. A representative of the Negley Sand Co. asked me if council could raise $300 to pay his firm for materials purchased for the job."

Under the rail-pulling arrangement worked out last summer, Joseph Berman, West Ninth st. junk dealer, arranges for the rails to be pulled, sells them, and then pays the city $11 a gross ton for doing the repaving. With work scheduled to resume soon, Mr. Baxter said he believes a plan more suitable to the city's interests could be worked out—possibly providing that Mr. Berman also does the repaving work and keeps the entire return from the sale of the scrap metal.

Mr. Goodballet suggested that the repaving be done with concrete instead of relaying the old bricks. This, he said probably would give a better roadway. If the plan is not satisfactory, the old method of repaving could be restored, he said.

A report from K. L. Shenkel city relief director, showed the city's load has dropped 21 cases, representing 66 persons, since April 1.

Standing now at 224 cases—or 565 individuals—the load was 245 cases, representing 631 persons, at the first of the month, the director pointed out.

A breakdown showed 34 families —138 individuals—and five singles on work relief and 79 familes, representing 326 persons, and 95 singles on direct aid. Expenses so far this month were listed at $336.23 for families and $12.25 for singles on work relief and $714.80 for families and $304.29 for singles on direct aid. During March, 29 new cases were opened, and 73 were closed—a net decline of 44, Mr. Shenkel's report showed.

Legislator's Son Enlists

CLEVELAND, April 8—Stephen M. Young Jr., son of Ohio's Democratic congressman-at-large, has enlisted in the U. S. artillery. He was discharged honorably from the U. S. navy in March, 1936, after serving a full enlistment.

ST. JOHN'S TO HOLD 3 HOLY WEEK SERVICES

Holy week services will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 1:30 p. m. in St. John's Lutheran church.

A service of preparation for Holy Communion will be conducted Wednesday night when Rev. John F. Kindsvatter, the pastor, will preach on "A Word of Sonship". The Sacrament of the Altar will be administered Thursday and Friday nights.

The order of public confession will precede the Communion service. Special music will be featured at each service. A sextet from the senior choir will sing "Gethsemane" Wednesday night, the junior choir will give "Agnus Dei" Thursday night and the senior choir will present "Into the Garden" Friday night.

The junior choir of St. John's church will sing at the union service Friday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church.

INSPECTION OF BRIDGE COMPLETED BY STATE

The East Liverpool-Chester bridge was pronounced "in splendid condition" today by consulting engineers of the Madjeski and Masters engineering firm in Harrisburg, Pa., who today completed a two-day inspection of the state-owned span.

The engineers pointed out, however, that an extensive paint maintenance job will be necessary this year, probably beginning in May. The inspectors were accompanied by Ray Palmer of Barnesville, former senator from the 20th and 22nd Ohio district, recently named secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Ohio bridge commission.

The engineers, in charge of maintenance of all Ohio-owned bridges, and Mr. Palmer also will inspect spans at Steubenville, Pomeroy and Sandusky bay.
